Dr. James Dobson Speaks Out Regarding the Humanitarian Crisis in Afghanistan

Author: Dr. James Dobson - Family Institute
<https://www.drjamesdobson.org>
August 19, 2021

The events unfolding in Afghanistan are historically tragic and deeply distressing. As Americans, we should be grieved and outraged at the callous and grossly negligent manner in which our nation's leaders have abandoned the Afghan people, despite our long-standing commitment to ensuring freedom and democracy in the region. Equally, we should be horrified that the Biden administration does not appear to have a well-defined strategy or the necessary resolve to ensure the rescuing of thousands of American citizens still trapped in harm's way. This is also true for the countless Afghans who worked alongside our military and are now in the crosshairs of the Taliban, due to their willingness to stand against this wicked tyranny.

As Christians, we should also weep at the atrocities being perpetrated against the Afghan women and children who are fearfully and wonderfully made in the image of Almighty God. And we should pray that He will pour out His mercy on the people in Afghanistan, and comfort all those whose lives are being torn apart. Lastly, we should pray spiritual warfare prayers against Satan and the dark forces of evil that are working through the Taliban, a wicked and extremist movement that rules by fear and violence, brutalizing women and persecuting Christians.

This is not a time for weakness or blame, but a time for bold leadership and necessary action—the level of courage that made America a beacon of liberty and hope throughout the world. While I implore us to flood our Heavenly Father with our pleas of prayer, we must also demand that the Biden administration responds swiftly and with great determination to put an end to this humanitarian crisis.

The Faithfulness of God by Os Hillman

Today God Is First

August 13, 2021

*"The Lord is faithful to all His promises and loving toward all He has made.
The Lord upholds all those who fall and lifts up all who are bowed down."
Psalm 145:13b-14*

Have you ever had a relationship with someone who was faithful? You knew you could depend on that person to do what he said. You learned that his word was completely trustworthy. If he said he would call you, he would. If he said he'd be somewhere at a certain time, he'd be there. In fact, if he was late, you began to wonder if he had an accident because it was so contrary to his nature. It's great to have friends who are faithful.

God is faithful. He is faithful to fulfill every promise in His Word. Sometimes we think God isn't faithful because it appears He has not fulfilled a desire that we have. Sometimes we think He is not faithful because of a crisis event that seems to say God isn't faithful. We must remember that God is more concerned about accomplishing His ultimate purpose in the life of every believer than giving us the desires of our heart. Sometimes this results in hardship.

The Bible is full of accounts of God's faithfulness that was often accompanied by hardship. He brought Joseph out of slavery to be greatly used in a nation. He delivered the people from Egypt and brought them into the Promised Land. He gave Abraham the son of promise late in his life. He delivered David from his enemies and made him a king. In story upon story, we learn of God's faithfulness.

Are you a faithful man or woman? The workplace needs faithful men and women. Take an inventory of your life today and ask God if you have been faithful with what He has entrusted to you.

Rummage Sale POSTPONED!

The Rummage Sale is postponed until Spring 2022.

Even so, please continue to bring in your gently used, unwanted items to the church basement for the upcoming and famous Rummage Sale.

Kinship Family & Youth Therapeutic Foster Care

LEPC recently received a letter from Michelle Hollier. Michelle is the Home Finder for Kinship Family & Youth Therapeutic Foster Care Program, a division of Catholic Charities Steuben/Livingston.

She wrote to ask for your help because they need foster homes. In Michelle's words:

We specialize in the care of children and youth with significant psychological, social, emotional, or behavioral needs who can respond to close relationships within a family setting, and whose special needs require more intense or therapeutic services than are found in traditional foster care.

Kinship serves to strengthen and enrich the quality of life for family members. Furthermore, we honor the dignity and worth of every human person. We believe there is no substitute for the family unit. We recognize family to be the relationship between persons that fosters each individual's mental, emotional, spiritual, and physical growth. We foster kinship and interdependence as the highest form of personal development.

I welcome any calls, or questions that you may have. If you know of any family activities where I could set up a booth to tell people about foster care, I would welcome that information. Please contact us at: HomeFinder@dor.org, 607-324-0909 ext. 2010 (ask for Melissa) or 607-769-2635.

Thank you for your time and consideration, and I hope to hear from you soon. - Michelle Hollier

Copies of her entire letter, including FAQs, are located on the Fellowship Hall bulletin board designated "Community Involvement". If the copies are all gone, you are welcome to use the copier to make a copy for yourself, but please replace the original back on the bulletin board. Thank you.

Sunday Seed Thoughts: Spiritual Nourishment

by ThePreachersWord
August 15, 2021
<https://thepreachersword.com>

There's an old story that made the rounds several years ago in church bulletins. It may be apocryphal but it makes a good point.

A church member once wrote a letter to the editor of a local newspaper complaining that it made no sense to attend church every Sunday. "I've gone for 30 years," he wrote, "and in that time I've heard something like 3,000 sermons. But for the life of me, I can't remember a single one of them."

He then concluded, "So, I think I'm wasting my time and the pastors are wasting theirs by giving sermons at all."

This sparked controversy in "Letters to the Editor," much to the delight of the publisher. It continued for several weeks until the debate ended with this letter.

"I've been married for 30 years now. In that time my wife has cooked some 32,000 meals. But for the life of me, I cannot recall the entire menu for a single one of those meals. But I do know this...they all nourished me and gave me the strength I needed to do my work. If my wife had not given me these meals, I would be physically dead today."

"Likewise," he concluded, "If I had not gone to church for spiritual nourishment, I would be spiritually dead today."

The Bible uses metaphors for spiritual nourishment that speak of our relationship with the Lord and the Word of God as providing sustenance for the soul.

Jesus is the bread of life, and the water of life (Jn. 6:35; 4:14).

"Taste and see that the Lord is God" (Ps. 34:8).

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God" (Matt. 4:4).

"As a deer pants for flowing streams, so pants my soul for you, O God. My soul thirsts for God, for the living God" (Ps. 42:1-2).

The Word is said to be "sweeter also than honey and drippings of the honeycomb" (Ps. 19:10).

While it is possible, as well as needful, to feed on His Word at home, there is a unique sense in which we are nourished by coming together as Family.

Bible class teachers and preachers can, and often do provide a greater spiritual feast than most Christians will receive at home. Furthermore, the collective encouragement we receive, the fellowship we share, the worship we offer the Lord, and the weekly communion in which we engage all provide spiritual nutrition.

Don't miss a meal. Come to church. Take your place at the table. And satiate your soul with Divine sustenance.

-Ken Weliever, The Preacherman

"The cross was a glorious outworking of the grace of God, by which the Father commissioned the Son to make full satisfaction so that sinners might be saved with no sacrifice of God's justice."

-R. C. Sproul (1939-2017)

Godless Productivity

A Believer's Guide to Redeeming Time

August 8, 2021

Article by Greg Morse

Staff writer, desiringGod.org

Get proper sleep. Organize your day. Get exercise. Watch your diet. Limit distractors. Draw boundaries. Get outside. Keep a calendar. Review each day. Set attainable goals. Say “no” to good things. Detach from screens.

So run secular productivity and self-help books.

What lacks in this advice is to ask if God has anything to say on the subject. Natural revelation, not special revelation, is consulted. Principles may abound, but are the most important realities missing? You receive no sense of sin and Satan, no sense of God and glory, no sense of faith and repentance, no sense of heaven or hell, no sense of souls or immortality. All we receive is a few peripheral tips for navigating the world. They send us rowing off to nowhere, efficiently.

In turning to God's book, however, we find not only superior counsel, but surprising counsel. To make the best use of the time, to navigate this life to the fullest, to use our time most wisely, we must be aware of the setting of our lives this side of eternity: the days are evil.

Redeemed Time for Evil Days

To know how to live, we must know when we live.

Look carefully then how you walk, not as unwise but as wise, making the best use of the time, because the days are evil. (Ephesians 5:15–16)

- Look carefully — watch closely, take inventory, consider;
- How you walk, how you live, where you place your feet, where your steps lead;
- Not as unwise but as wise — listening to, obeying, and navigating life heeding God's voice;
- Making the best use of the time (literally, “redeeming the time”) — buying it back from idleness, purposelessness, sin, Satan;
- — Because the days are evil.

Paul knew that the world he lived in — the same one we live in presently — has a rebellious “course,” ruled by a “prince” whose ways are sinister (Ephesians 2:2). To redeem our time, to walk wisely, to make our lives count and avoid destruction, we must see what Paul does: a world at war with its Maker, and ourselves traveling through that world.

Our Busy Enemy

Can you discern the times in which we live? Turn on any news station, talk to any of your neighbors, glance at posts on social media, consider for a moment the thousands of babies legally murdered in neighborhood facilities, put your ear to creation's chorus of groans, we are confronted with the same message: The days are dark with evil.

Yet we often fail to realize it. Modern times do not come to us dressed in black, holding a pitchfork. We sail in luxury on our self-help cruises, gliding under clear skies and warm weather. But the apostle Paul places us in a battleship, travailing perilous waves with the threat of enemy planes above, torpedoes below, and mutiny within.

Yes, we feast. Yes, we laugh. Yes, we celebrate all that God has done and is doing and will most certainly do. But we also mourn. We also sin. We also see things that twist the soul with grief and horror. And while Satan distracts and tempts us into idleness and wasted lives, he is a busy enemy, hunting on what he knows to be borrowed time.

Charles Spurgeon sounds the siren in “The Sluggard's Farm, June 10, 1888 - Tabernacle Pulpit Volume 34, as follows:

A Christian sluggard! Is there such a being? A Christian man on half time?

A Christian man working not at all for his Lord; how shall I speak of him? Time does not tarry, Death does not tarry, Hell does not tarry; Satan is not lazy, all the powers of darkness are busy: how is it that you and I can be sluggish, if the Master has put us into his vineyard? Surely we must be void of understanding if, after being saved by the infinite love of God, we do not spend and be spent in his service.

We sail in a war zone, the days are evil, souls are won or lost every day. Is now the time and this world the place for rest? Are we home? Is there not a true heaven at the end of a narrow and hard way? Wicked times must be met with wise, purposeful, redeemed living. Look carefully then how you walk, for the days are evil.

Ten More Lives

At the end of Schindler's List, as the title character flees his home after helping over a thousand Jews escape from Nazi death camps, the surviving Jews thank him for all the tireless labor and sacrifice he endured on their behalf. His response is chilling, “I could have got more out. . . . I threw away so much money.” He looks at his car, his watch, his possessions and asks, Why did I keep the car? This was ten more lives. This pin is gold — two more lives.

Schindler did not lament that he didn't watch more television or exercise more or keep boundaries on his email — he regretted not making the best use of the time, not doing what he could to save lives during his evil days. How many of us, myself included, will come to our end and say, This television series — could this have been ten more lives? This vain hobby, who else might have heard and believed?

I am not trying to overreach and burden consciences while enjoying good things of earth. The demons, not wisdom, forbid the good that God has created and given to us (1 Timothy 4:3). I hope to awaken us again to the brevity and gravity of our days, so that these gifts inspire vigilance and not negligence. We have work to do, and we must work while it is still day — while we still can.

Now Is the Time

How are you living? Are you walking as wise or unwise? Are you making the best use of the time, or are you enslaved to triviality and sin? Have you reckoned that the days are evil?

Scripture charts the way to redeem our time. If we look solely at the rest of Ephesians, we see that: Now is the time to know what the will of the Lord is (Ephesians 5:17), to be filled with the Spirit (Ephesians 5:18), to sing songs and hymns to each other from your heart (Ephesians 5:19), to give thanks in everything to the Father, through the Son (Ephesians 5:20), to follow God's will for marriage, the family, and society (Ephesians 5:21–6:9), to stand strong in the Lord and in his strength and armor (Ephesians 6:10–20) — because these days are evil days.

Now is the time to pray, now is the time to fast, now is the time to encourage one another as we see the day drawing near. Now is the time to reconcile with those we have not forgiven, to love the unlovable, to share the gospel with that person we assume God won't save, to confess that secret sin to a trusted brother or sister, to live more unreservedly for God's glory. Now is the time to let our speech be seasoned with salt, to let our lights shine before a panicking world, to proclaim the excellencies of our Christ.

Now is the hour to denounce worldliness, refuse apathy, and cling to Christ like never before. It is time to redeem the time while trusting God, for though the days are evil, he is forever good.

Greg Morse is a staff writer for desiringGod.org and graduate of Bethlehem College & Seminary. He and his wife, Abigail, live in St. Paul with their son and daughter.

The Message of Creation

By John Piper

August 24, 2021

Claiming to be wise, they became fools, and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images resembling mortal man and birds and animals and creeping things. (Romans 1:22–23)

It would be a great folly and a great tragedy if a man loved his wedding ring more than he loved his bride. But that is what this passage says has happened.

Human beings have fallen in love with the echo of God's excellence in creation, and lost the ability to hear the incomparable, original shout of love and power and glory.

The message of creation is this:

There is a great God of glory and power and generosity behind all this awesome universe; you belong to him because he made you. He is patient with you in sustaining your rebellious life. Turn and bank your hope on him and delight yourself in him, not merely his handiwork.

According to Psalm 19:1–2, day pours forth the “speech” of that message to all who will listen in the day, speaking with blindingly bright sun and blue sky and clouds and untold shapes and colors and beautiful designs of all things visible. Night pours forth the “knowledge” of the same message to all who will listen at night, speaking with great dark voids and summer moons and countless stars and strange sounds and cool breezes and northern lights.

Day and night are saying one thing: God is glorious! God is glorious! God is glorious! Turn away from the creation as your supreme satisfaction, and delight yourself in the Lord of glory.

The Bereans Will Reconvene on September 12, 2021

The Berean Class will be starting up on Grandparents Day, September 12, 2021, in Fellowship Hall beginning at 9:45 a.m., but it isn't intended just for grandparents. The Berean Class is a Teen and Adult Sunday School for almost all ages. This class would even be appropriate for mature students in grades as early as 6th grade.

We will be starting off the class with a 12 week video study called,

“Unlocking the Mysteries

of Genesis”

Unlocking the Mysteries of Genesis presents evidence that confirms the biblical account of creation and offers defensible answers to some of the most provocative and controversial questions of faith and science. How did life begin? Where did humans come from? Was Noah's Flood real? How old is the earth?

In each dynamic 22-minute episode, host Markus Lloyd guides the viewer on a memorable journey through some of the most fascinating topics in creation science. Through interviews with the leading creation scientists, insights from cutting-edge research, and on-location investigations, Unlocking the Mysteries of Genesis presents evidence that supports a biblical viewpoint and dispels pervasive and inaccurate theories from the secular world.

Developed by the Institute for Creation Research, one of the world's leading creation research organizations, this outstanding series provides an engaging exploration of creation science like never before.

Unlocking the Mysteries of Genesis is an excellent resource for church, home, or academic study. Christians of all ages can find many of the answers they need to affirm and defend their faith and to discover the harmony between Scripture and science.
